Desc: The MYCincinnati Ambassador Ensemble is a string sextet of young Price Hill musicians led by violinist, composer, and Cincinnati Art Ambassador Fellow Eddy Kwon. For the 2014-15 school year, the group engaged in weekly critical discussions around identity (including race, gender, and class), social justice, power, and the artist as an agent of change. Using these riveting and intense conversations as creative inspiration, Eddy worked with the students to compose a performance work that organically combines chamber music with themes of social justice. Artistically avant-garde, socially critical, and radiating with youthful energy, the final work is a culmination — and celebration — of a year's effort and collective growth. The project is supported by the City of Cincinnati Art Ambassador Fellowships.

The entire process — from the initial discussions to the intense rehearsals — has been documented by world-renowned photographer Michael Wilson. He and his son, Henry, have been crafting a beautiful documentary film that will be screened at the beginning of the event.
